Hooker Furniture to Purchase Sam Moore from La-Z-Boy

Martinsville, VA; Monroe, MI; February 13, 2007 -- Hooker Furniture Corporation (NASDAQ-CM:HOFI) and La-Z-Boy Incorporated (NYSE: LZB) today announced they signed a letter of intent for Hooker to purchase Sam Moore Furniture, a Bedford, Va.-based manufacturer of upscale occasional chairs with an emphasis on fabric-to-frame customization, from La-Z- Boy.

Sam Moore, a 63-year-old company owned since 1998 by La-Z-Boy, is positioned in the upper-medium price range, has a similar dealer base and is a niche- and item-oriented line like Hooker, making the proposed acquisition a “great fit,” according to Paul B. Toms Jr., chairman, chief executive officer and president of Hooker.

“This acquisition would help us attain one of our strategic goals to further diversify into fabric upholstery,” Toms said. In 2003, Hooker acquired upscale leather seating company Bradington-Young, and the combination of the two seating resources under the Hooker Furniture umbrella “would create approximately $100 million in annual upholstery sales for the Company, and also would take our total revenues closer to the $400 million mark,” he said.

Kurt L. Darrow, president and chief executive officer of La-Z-Boy, said, “Sam Moore is a great company with an excellent product line and customer base; however, it doesn’t fit with our long-term strategic direction. Hooker is a natural partner for this business and we are confident our customers would be well serviced. We’d like to express our gratitude to our employees and customers for their dedication to both Sam Moore and La-Z-Boy and look forward to their assistance during the transition period.”

Toms added, “We believe there is a good future for domestically-produced upholstery, especially for a company that offers customization, and 60% of Sam Moore’s business is special order.” He added, “Sam Moore is well positioned with the interior design trade, which would further another Hooker strategic goal to strengthen business with the designer distribution channel.”

According to the terms of the letter of intent, the acquisition would be a cash purchase of all the Sam Moore assets, which include property, plant, equipment, inventories and accounts receivable. Sam Moore's assets include an approximately 325,000 square-foot production facility and corporate offices in Bedford.

Also under the terms of the letter, Sam Moore President Mike Moldenhauer would continue with the company. Moldenhauer said, "We are delighted at the prospect of becoming part of a Virginia-based company that is growth focused and enjoys the same fine tradition of high-quality furniture as Sam Moore. This is a very positive announcement for our employees, customers and suppliers."

"Sam Moore is a strong company with a good name, a great work force and management team," said Toms. "While we think we can help to ramp up sales at Sam Moore, we expect the company would operate autonomously on a day to day basis."

Other marketing and merchandising synergies the transaction would offer include rounding out the product assortment for Hooker's SmartLiving ShowPlace retail galleries and complementing Hooker's import accent chair business. "We already have an $8.5 million business with our imported decorative chairs that are sold from our warehouse or through our container direct program," Toms said. "We can visualize taking some of the best selling frames in our current line and offering them with special order fabrics utilizing the expertise of Sam Moore."

The transaction is expected to close some time in the second quarter of the 2007 calendar year, subject to, among other things, completion of due diligence and negotiation of a definitive acquisition agreement.
